SEWING MACHINE.
We would call attention to the following facts in connection with this Machine, which renders it superior to any other in use:
It forms a flat elastic seam which will not rip in wear,
It is entirely noiseless;
A patented device prevents its being turned backward;
The needle cannot be set wrong;
Can be used successfully without other instructions than accompany the Machine;
It received the Gold Medal of the American Institute in 1862. For particulars, enquire of

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 19, 1866.

The Bancroft oration which was delivered to Congress, the foreign corps and the distinguished men connected with the Administration, last Monday, is generally liked, though some sharp critics say it was a much greater display of George Bancroft than of Abraham Lincoln. The principal fault of the performance is, that there was too little of Lincoln in it, and too much of history. The exercises of the day passed off very well, however, upon the whole. It was worth the trouble of coming out in the evening to see so many distinguished people gathered in one hall. The President, the Chief Justice, all Congress, the diplomatic corps, Gen. Grant and many others were present. The President and Chief Justice Chase sat opposite to each other—the President on the Speaker's left, occupying the corner chair, and the Chief Justice occupying the chair on the other corner. Ben. Butler (no longer General Butler), sat right side of General Grant. It was comical to see the two men avoid looking at each other squarely. They sat so near each other that it was almost impossible to avoid it. Butler, since the "corked-bottle" report of Gen. Grant, has refused to have any connection with the Lieutenant-General, and does not even bow to him on the street. All this won't hurt General Grant, nor will it help Butler very much.

There is a good deal of gossip about here in reference to the terrible scoring which Mr. Bancroft gave England and France in the presence of the English and French Ministers. The question discussed by the critics is, was it polite, in good taste, to invite Sir Frederick Bruce and Count Montholon (the English and French Ministers) to be present on an occasion when they were to be so terribly raked. I do not mean them personally, but their governments. While here, they represent their governments. They are here as strangers, and it was very much like an insult to invite them to such a report. I have heard it stated that Mr. Bancroft sent a note to both the gentlemen, saying that he had prepared his oration before he knew that they were to be present, and that under the circumstances, their absence would be excused if they preferred not to come. I cannot ascertain that this is true. If it is, then these Ministers take their risk and can find no fault.

Mr. Bancroft is mildly in favor of the President's policy of reconstruction as against Congress, but the tone of the oration was so high that I do not hear any fault found with it in any quarter—except among the Copperheads. They do not like its high tone respecting slavery and the beginning of the war. Especially do they dislike that part which gives a history of the Dred Scott decision. Its characterization of that decision they complain was out of taste at such a time!

The President was delighted with his guest (Mr. Bancroft stayed at the President's while he was here) and from this fact some curious and amusing rumors have been started. For instance it is rumored that Mr. Bancroft is soon to be made Secretary of State, as Mr. Seward's health is so poor that he cannot remain any longer at that post. I do not take stock in the rumor. No doubt Mr. Bancroft would make a very able and accomplished Secretary of State, but Mr. Seward is not quite ready to leave public life, I think.

The opposition members of Congress have been very busy of late discussing the position of the President. They claim him as friendly to them. But in spite of some of his recent speeches which have a look in the direction of the opposition, the President asserts that he is with the Republicans, and that he means to fight out his quarrels, if he has any, inside the party. This is the true ground. Before I close this letter I shall have something to say on this point; but I must allude to Senator Williams' speech in the Senate last week. It was one of the most ingenious and able speeches which has been delivered in the Senate during the debate on the Constitutional Amendment. There was great curiosity to hear what Mr. Williams would say, for it had been rumored that he would agree in the main with Mr. Nesmith. I never credited these rumors for a moment, but many people did, and some of them are Republicans. It was seen before the Oregon Senator had been on his feet ten minutes, that he was sound to the core. How could any man doubt it after such an exordium? It was delivered to a good audience. The galleries were not full, for of course when a Senator is speaking he must take his chance of that. Except when a very distinguished Senator speaks, and it is known beforehand, the galleries will not be filled. But the Senators gave a close attention, evidently pleased and surprised with the unusual ability of the speaker. Mr. Williams seemed perfectly at home, and though interrupted by Mr. Stewart, of Nevada, at the commencement, he was not embarrassed in the least.

The reconstruction committee has been very hard at work for a month taking evidence as to the condition of the Southern States. Five or six subcommittees are engaged upon this work—each distinct from the other. Two members, for instance, have the State of Virginia in charge, two others have charge of the State of Tennessee, and so on. As I understand it, this work is in earnest and is not meant to gain time. The committee when it set out really desired to learn the real condition of the South and the evidence about taken will fill a large volume. Before the final adjournment of this session a report will be made general and specific—and the most important parts of the evidence will be published with it. Persons who know what there is in this evidence tell me it will make out a perfect case for Congress, for it will show conclusively that the South is not fit to come back to all its old privileges in the Union. Tennessee is regarded as exceptional and it is so. Congress as well as the committee will agree to this. But most of the other rebellious States are not so loyal as to deserve to be admitted, and the evidence will show this conclusively to the country. General Lee was before the committee last week, and, of course, his presence created no small sensation. It was not the secessionists alone who wanted to take a look at the rebel chief. Human nature is weak and some of our Republican friends are envious. A good many people were anxious to take a look at the General and were enabled to gratify their curiosity. The General behaved himself well. He seems to have no desire to make a display, nor does he exhibit a bitter spirit. On the contrary, he stands ready (so he says) to do anything he can to weld the Union together. But people cannot forget his treason—his rank treachery—not only to his country but the old army of which he was a member.

The vote of the House sometime since, in offering a seat upon its floor (as a matter of courtesy and not as a member) to Col. Johnson of Arkansas, is regarded by many good Republicans as unfortunate. It is said, and with a good deal of force, that some distinction should be made between a loyal and a disloyal man. Col. Johnson fought through the war on the Union side, and deserves to meet with kind treatment here. It is said the President was a good deal hurt at the vote. He keeps an eye on Congress constantly. Now Mr. Lincoln rarely read the newspapers, but Mr. Johnson never lets a day go by without looking into them. I understand from a friend who knows his personal habits, that he looks over the record of the proceedings in Congress every day, and is inclined sometimes to be tolerably severe upon some of the extreme radicals. It should not be overlooked, however, that, on the vote in the House a large number of Republicans voted for admission.

When Tennessee comes before the House from the Reconstruction Committee, and the issue is fairly made up, she will be admitted to representation. The sub-committee on that State are for early restoration, and so are a majority of the entire committee. The President has been consulted at length on the subject, and he replied that "although he was opposed to a 're-admission' of any Southern State, holding that they were already in the Union, that he would not veto a joint resolution which partially restored to the State all the old rights and privileges in the Union and especially in Congress." So there is no need of difficulty on this issue.

I reserve to the close of my letter the most important subject—that of the veto message—at last on that question there is an open issue between the President and Congress. I think this will be denied by no man of ordinary intelligence. Upon the document itself I need not say anything for you will long since have received it by telegraph. But I can say something of its effect upon members and others. There has been very much excitement in Congress and in political circles outside of Congress ever since the message came into the Senate. In some quarters there is open defiance, in others profound sorrow—in others still the greatest joy. The opposition members are delighted with the certain evidence (as they regard it) that the President has come over to their side. But they are in too much haste—he is not yet by any means over. He is opposed to certain legislation in Congress. He wants the rebel States represented there—he is determined to get them back there, but he asserts over and over again to prominent members of Congress that he does not mean to be driven over to the opposition party—to the Copperheads.

Such men as Senators Grimes and Fessenden, who are conservative in their views, say that the message is an open declaration of war against the Republicans as an organization, but they may speak in the excitement of the moment what they do not really mean.

The scene during the reading of the message was a striking one. Half the members of the House came over to hear it read, and the galleries were packed closely. The silence was almost perfect. You could hear the rustle of a silk dress in the gallery all over the chamber. The opposition Senators could not conceal their delight. [illegible] have had nothing since the old days of pro-slavery rule that has pleased them so much. And the Republicans were sad.

It is too soon to say what the effect will be on the fortunes of the party, or what the fate of the bill will be. Senators Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle and others favor the formation of a new party, but there are no other Senators, that I hear of, who take that position—Republican Senators, I mean—and I do not see how it is going to get a start among the Republicans. It is suggested that even this trouble can be obviated by an "agreement to disagree" between Congress and the President. But I will not speculate.

The House has very promptly ordered the Secretary of the Navy, to furnish to the American and Russian Overland Telegraph Company, a steam vessel. The Secretary was "authorized" to do so last year, but he refused to consider the resolution mandatory. If the Senate agrees to the resolution, it will not be long before the steam vessel will be on its way towards the Arctic regions, as it is to be taken from the Pacific squadron.

STEAMER DAY.

Senator Williams' Speech.

The New York Herald contains the following synopsis of Senator Williams' speech on the constitutional amendment fixing the basis of representation, in the United States Senate, February 15th. It is too brief to do anything like justice to the speech:

The morning hour having expired, the pending amendment to the constitution of the United States on the subject of representation was taken up.

Mr. Williams, (rep.) of Oregon, took the floor. He did not believe the Southern States were in the Union in the sense that New York was in it, nor out of it in the sense that Canada and [illegible] were out of it. The relations which ought to exist between the Government and the States had been disturbed as regarded the Southern States. He did not say as a matter of fact that all the people of South Carolina were traitors, but a majority of them did seize upon the State government and make it the mere incorporation of individual traitors of the State. There were two kinds of treason—political and legal. When [illegible] was overthrown by force he after [illegible] accomplish his object by guilt and deceit. [illegible] seemed to him that the rebels of the South, having been beaten by the North in the field of war, were following the example of [illegible] type. They were seeking to [illegible] amnesty oaths what they could not do [illegible] in the field. These States, whether in or out of the Union, were not entitled to the rights and privileges of the other States.

Mr. Stewart asked him whether he [illegible] State of Tennessee should be [illegible] States that had forfeited their rights.

Mr. Williams said he would [illegible] ently. He proceeded to discuss the validity of secession ordinances. Whether [illegible] not, they were operative, and had the [illegible] as if constitutional. A parallel case was [illegible] tender law. The constitutionality of the law [illegible] been questioned, but still it had furnished [illegible] for carrying on the war just as if [illegible] no question as to the legality. So with [illegible] nances of secession; whether valid or not [illegible] severed for a time the connection [illegible] Government and those States and [illegible] them their State governments were org[illegible] eleven States, which organized a war which made the nation tremble from centre to circumference. Mr. Williams next discussed the alleged obligation of the Government to pay the rebel [illegible]. He denied any such obligation, saying there was no precedent for it and there would be no [illegible] in it. Commenting on the [illegible] of [illegible] Johnson and Doolittle, he said the lately rebellious States were in the hands of Congress to do just what it thought best for the welfare of the country. He denied that the apportionment of taxes among the Southern States committed Congress to the recognition of their State governments. Congress had a perfect right to legislate for the suppression of the rebellion and to collect taxes for that purpose. The apportionment bill proved nothing. If it provided that the Southern States had a right to representation now, it proved that they had it then. The Senate had repeatedly committed itself against this doctrine. Speaking of the President's policy, he said that from the first, President Johnson's actions showed that he regarded the Southern States as out of their proper relations with the Federal Government. He did not wish to censure or criticise the President, though he doubted his power to re-organize State governments as Commander-in-Chief of the Army. He thought there was too much importance in the public mind on the subject of reconstruction. Time had a great deal to accomplish which time alone could do. It took seven years after the last British flag went down before the Government was formed; and Congress was now being denounced for not admitting the conspirators in the late war to seats in Congress. It was due to the magnitude of the subject to proceed cautiously in this great work. He cordially endorsed the prevailing sentiments of Mr. Sumner's speech; but he did not believe Mr. Sumner's proposition was practicable at the present time. He believed if the negroes were permitted to vote immediately they would be controlled by the rebels. He did not believe the negroes of the South were fit to vote now; they must have time to learn. But he hoped the day was not far distant when every man born an American would be endowed with the elective franchise. He objected to Mr. Henderson's amendment because it would prevent the States from excluding Indians from the right of suffrage.

Mr. Henderson, (rep.) of Maine, said Mr. Williams was mistaken. Indians were not citizens of the United States, and therefore could not vote. They were especially declared not citizens by a law recently passed.

Mr. Williams said that the law referred to was liable to be repealed at any time, whereas this was a constitutional amendment designed to be perpetual. Mr. Williams then endorsed the proposition of the Committee on Reconstruction as the best measure before the Senate. In conclusion he referred to the President's policy. He gave him great credit for pure and patriotic motives; but without violating any rule of propriety he thought he might be allowed to enter an opinion that the President had made a mistake in the unlimited exercise of the pardoning power. The South had not acted in good faith. It had shown hatred and malice and contempt and defiance. It seemed as if there was nothing that would touch the hearts of the Southern people except the irresistible power of the Government. It might be well to make an experiment with Tennessee and allow her to be represented in Congress to see whether loyal men would control the State and whether the white people would treat the negroes properly. He was sorry to hear the Senator from Kentucky (Mr. Guthrie) say the other day that the Freedmen's Bureau bill would lead to a dissolution of the Union. This was the gentleman who reported in the Chicago Convention, a resolution declaring the war a failure.

Mr. Guthrie, (dem.) of Kentucky, said Mr. Williams misunderstood his remarks. He said the Freedmen's Bureau bill and the Civil Rights bill were being used to accomplish what the rebels failed to do. As to the Chicago Convention referred to, it had only declared the war a failure up to that time.

Mr. Williams concluded his remarks.

Mr. Henderson took the floor, but said he was not prepared to speak to-day, and the further consideration of the subject was postponed until to-morrow.

The Daily Oregonian.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE.

THURSDAY MORNING, MARCH 29, 1866.

Not Much of a Dilemma.—Our amiable neighbor of the Herald imagines he has got the Oregonian into a dilemma, in the matter of our disclaimer of belief in the Jefferson Davis doctrine of the right of secession, and quotes Thomas Jefferson to show what sort of horns the "dilemma" has. Let us see: In the Herald the other morning we found the Columbia County Democratic resolutions, one of which was as follows:

Resolved, That we believe with Jefferson Davis, that the people are the best judges of their own grievances, and of the manner and mode of redressing them.

We remarked: "So it appears this issue of the late infernal rebellion is to be revived, &c." Whereat the Herald undertook to lecture us for not agreeing with the resolution which it said was in the language of Thomas Jefferson and correct in principle. In our issue of Tuesday we took occasion, not to deny the right of revolution under the circumstances as put by Thomas Jefferson, but as interpreted by Jefferson Davis and his Democratic brethren in the North. We said:

> In the above we do not wish to be understood as denying the right of the people "to redress their grievances," or in other words to change their mode of government when they so desire; but we do want to be understood as protesting against the application which Jeff. Davis has given to the principle.

And again:

> We are not [illegible] to the principle when it receives a right [illegible] but we do oppose the application which Jeff. Davis has given it and which the Democratic party sanctions.

Notwithstanding this explicit and clear statement that we were not opposed to a right interpretation of the principle, but that we were opposed to the application given it by Jeff. Davis, the Herald [illegible] defending the resolution and charging us with not only being infidel to the Declaration of Independence, but in conflict with Jeff. Davis, Thomas Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln. The Herald quotes Thomas Jefferson thus:

> "But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them [the people] under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new guards for their future security."

This is a very different doctrine from the one enunciated in the Columbia resolution, in this: that revolutions are justifiable, according to Thomas Jefferson, only when they occur as the result of a long train of abuses and usurpations, having invariably in view the object of placing the people under an absolute despotism. The Jeffersonian idea was that the people might revolt, not that a factious minority of them could rightfully do so. The Jeff. Davis doctrine was and is that such minority, [illegible] mentioned by the [illegible], may judge of their own grievances and proceed to redress them. The practical application which Jeff. Davis made of the principle, constituted treason, and that is what we [illegible] to and what the Herald [illegible]. We have not denied the right of revolution as expressed in the Declaration of Independence, but we do most [illegible] deny the right of rebellion as practised by Jeff. Davis and approved by the Democratic party. And in this we rather think that we are in accord with the views of Abraham Lincoln, [illegible] under his command, the armies of the United States did put down both Jeff. Davis and his [illegible] doctrine.

We can't see the [illegible] part of our amiable [illegible] joke. But we can see and so can everybody else, that if the Herald's article have any point, that point is an attempt at the justification of Jeff. Davis and [illegible] views of revolution, and the [illegible] might just as well have left the [illegible] of Davis in the Columbia resolution.

State Items.

[illegible] about sixty settlers on the Coquille river, the most of them with families. The [illegible] sixty miles distant from Roseburg. The Coquille river is said to be navigable [illegible] of one hundred tons, a distance of over fifty miles from its mouth. That part of the [illegible] fit for cultivation lies along the river [illegible] with a dense growth of [illegible].

The [illegible] Capt. Borland's company [illegible] in a few days at the Dalles. The number of his men [illegible] is not so great as [illegible].

The [illegible] says the tug Rabboni left the Columbia for San Francisco last Saturday [illegible].

The [illegible] derived from the sale of school lands, now in the Linn county treasury, amounts to [illegible].

Our [illegible] in relation to a [illegible] one hundred and twenty-five [illegible] City, was not in[illegible] to impute negligence to the Express. [illegible] & Co. are not Wells, Fargo & Co.

The [illegible] of the Dalles are planting out grape vines quite generally this spring.

Politics and Pulpits.—The Democracy have, for several years past, agonized [illegible] over what they [illegible] the union of Church and State, or the [illegible] of pulpits and politics. At the [illegible] of the Democratic Convention in this city [illegible], a man with a white [illegible] got up, and [illegible] the attention of the members of the Convention, announced [illegible] a Methodist [illegible] of the Southern school," and requested the members all to [illegible] an appointment of his to [illegible] at early candle light that evening. Said the [illegible] to the Democratic delegates: "I expect to do you a good turn, and I want you to come and hear me, as one good turn deserves another." He [illegible] where to go to find [illegible] with one of the strongest [illegible] the Methodist Church [illegible].

Sovereignty.—One of the Democratic resolutions [illegible] at the Courthouse Tuesday, declares in [illegible], that the Federal Government, so far as it has power, is sovereign! so far as it has no power, it is not sovereign! that the States, so far as they have power which the people haven't got, or that is not prohibited to the States, or that has not been given away by the States, are also sovereign! Why didn't the pair of amiable foo-foos who originated that brilliant idea, report a resolution declaring solemnly that two and two make four? 'Twould have been so indisputable!

Liberal and Just.—The people of Sacramento, since McDonald has been ascertained not to be the murderer of Wellm, have taken in hand the business of relieving him. An entertainment for his [illegible] was given by the citizens of the city, at the theater on the 14th inst. The Assembly branch of the Legislature has passed a bill appropriating to him $1500, as amends for the injury he has [illegible] in being arrested and taken from his [illegible].

When blood flows good men are depressed.—Review.

When the blood of Union soldiers flowed and the gallant [illegible] of the United States Government were beaten back by the traitorous hordes of Jeff. Davis, you and your party-followers were not depressed. You rubbed your hands gleefully, while the light of a ghoul's joy shone from your eyes. Everybody saw it and your denial of it is only double damnation.

There is an old adage which advises everybody to "go slow and sure." Uncle Sam's mail carriers seem to have adopted the first half of it and to have totally discarded the other half.

Musical.—The Lane County Copperhead Convention instructed its delegates to vote in the State Convention, for the musical Whiteaker for Governor. Fiddle de dee.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MARCH 27.

Congressional.

Chicago, March 27th.—The following is the vote in the Senate, on Friday, March 23d, on the resolution declaring Stockton entitled to his seat:

Ayes—Anthony, Buckalew, Cowan, Dixon, Foster, Guthrie, Hendricks, Johnson, Lane of Kansas, McDougall, Morgan, Nesmith, Norton, Poland, Riddle, Saulsbury, Stewart, Stockton, Washburne, Willy—22.

Noes—Brown, Chandler, Clark, Conness, Cragine, Cresswell, Fessenden, Grimes, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane of Indiana, Morrill, Nye, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Sumner, Wade, Wilson, Yates—22.

Absent—Anderson, Dixon, Doolittle, Foot, Howard, Van Sickle, Williams, Wright—7.

The whole time of the Senate yesterday, was devoted to the above case. On motion by Sumner to strike out Stockton's name from the record of Friday, the debate continued till half past four and attracted much interest. Trumbull said he believed that Stockton was legally elected, and had so reported from the Judiciary Committee, but Stockton had no right to vote, and no right to retain his seat by his vote. Davis, of Ky., characterized the whole proceeding as an attempt to oust Stockton for party purposes. A motion to refer the question of Stockton's right to a seat to the Judiciary Committee, was lost; ayes 18, noes 22.

The House proceedings yesterday were unimportant. The Committee on Elections reported a resolution, giving to Wm. E. Dodge the seat now occupied by Jas. Brooks. It will be considered on Thursday, the 29th.

Bidwell and McClure voted for the Loan bill on Friday, and Higby against it.

Bills to be soon Reported.

The bill increasing the number of cadets at West Point, will be reported in a few days.

The Times' Washington special dispatch, says that the Committee on banks and currency, have unanimously agreed to report the joint resolution recommending the withdrawal of the issue of five cent currency, upon which appears the vignette of a private individual, and an amendment thereto, that no head or device of any kind shall be put on the currency, except by express orders of the Secretary of the Treasury.

Vessels to Constitute the Flying Squadron.

The World's dispatch says that the Flying Squadron, which is to be fitted out for a cruise on the British North American coast, will consist of seven vessels in all. The probability is, that the vessels selected for this duty, will be the Chattanooga, Pensacola, Arcadia, Augusta, Monocacy, Osceola and the Galena. The above named vessels mount in the aggregate, 80 guns. At the present time, there are over twenty vessels belonging to the British, in those waters, and they are nearly all large vessels, cruising among the West India Islands and the Gulf of Mexico.

Fenian Matters in Maine.

New York, March 27.—The Herald's Portland, Me., special dispatch says: There was a very large and enthusiastic Fenian demonstration last evening. The procession, as it passed the Preble House, was watched with much interest by the Provincials there assembled, waiting for the steamer St. Johns, for Eastport. The Aroostook paper denies that the Fenians in the eastern section of the State intend to invade the neighboring province of New Brunswick.

The Naval Medical Board.

New York, March 27.—The Tribune's Washington special dispatch says that the Board for the examination of candidates for admission to the Naval Medical College are still in session at the Navy Hospital in New York and the naval asylum in Philadelphia and will continue till all vacancies are filled.

The Military Committee in Session.

The Senate military committee, yesterday passed upon a large number of applications for military promotion and assignments of West Point Cadets to the regular army, which will be acted upon at the next executive session of the Senate.

New Supply of Fractional Currency.

The sum of $335,000 in fractional currency was yesterday delivered by the printing division of the Treasury Department.

Public Lands in the Insurrectionary States.

The following statement exhibits the vacant public lands in five of the Insurrectionary States: Alabama, 6,732,068 acres; Louisiana, 6,235,102 acres; Florida, 1,132,760 acres; Mississippi, 4,749,760 acres; Arkansas, 9,298,013. There are no public lands in the States of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky.

A New Tax Bill.

The World's Washington dispatch says the ways and means committee are preparing another tax bill, in which they propose to put such articles as ought to be placed on the free list. The only measure that the committee has ready to report is one putting a tax of five cents per pound on cotton. To-day, however, they expect to settle some of the other matters, and next week report the bill to the House.

A Bill to Relieve Western Virginia.

The Senate military committee, yesterday authorized Mr. Nesmith to report a bill in favor of reimbursing the State of Western Virginia for the money expended in raising and transporting troops during the rebellion, to the amount of some $300,000.

Letting of Flour Contracts.

New York, March 27.—Bids for 25,000 barrels of flour were yesterday opened by the commissary department of this military district. A much greater number of proposals were offered than were called for. The bids ranged from $10 40@$10 50 for No. 1, to $10 75@$10 25 for No. 2. All the No. 1 flour at $10 40 and under that figure, and all the No. 2 offered at $9 75 and under, was taken.

The Case of the Chilean Privateer — Billiards.

New York, March 27.—The case of the Meteor, the alleged Chilean privateer, was up yesterday in the U. S. District Court, and the case comes on again to-day.

An exhibition of the game of billiards took place last evening at the Cooper Institute. The players were Roberts, the English champion, Kavanagh, Deery, Cohill, Fray and Foster. There were four games played, in two of which Roberts was victorious against Kavanagh and Deery respectively. Cohill beat him at the French Carom game.

A Trades Union Convention.

The presiding officers of the different Trades Union societies held a meeting in this city for the purpose of making arrangements for having a grand National Convention of the Trades Societies, and the U. S. credentials to be presented from the representatives of the 50,000 members of the Trades Unions of the country at large. Resolutions were adopted and a committee appointed to make the necessary preparations for the convention.

The South American War.

New York, March 27.—The Herald's Rio Janeiro correspondent writes respecting affairs in Brazil, and the progress of war between the allies and the Paraguayans. The grand attack of the former is not yet expected to be made, but the two hostile forces have confronted each other on the opposite side of the Parana river, and it is reported that the allied army would cross the river about the middle of February, preparatory to a formidable assault on the Paraguayan stronghold.

Court Decision—Rebels Reserved for Justice.

Frankfort, Ky., March 27.—The court of appeals has rendered a decision which virtually prevents a soldier, Union or Confederate from being prosecuted for acts committed under order of the superior officers.

Washington, March 27.—The Republican asserts that the President has laid up for prosecution the cases of five hundred of the principal participants in the rebellion, whom he holds for the purpose of justice.

The Supreme Court, yesterday, decided that national bank shares are liable to local taxation, being personal property. Chief Justice Chase dissented, and read an opinion that this was an indirect mode of taxing national securities, which was not authorized by Congress. In the cases of Cutting, Fisk and others, the Court held that a broker is charged upon purchases of securities made on his own account, the same as on his commissions when purchasing for others.

The Civil Rights Bill Vetoed.

Washington, March 27.—President Johnson transmitted a veto message to the Senate to-day, on the civil rights bill. The message has not, up to this hour, 1:30 P. M., been read.

Senator Foote, of Vermont, is supposed to be in a dying condition this noon.

The Veto Message.

Washington, March 27.—The following is the President's Message:

To the Senate of the United States: I regret the bill entitled an act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights, and furnish means for their vindication, contains provisions which I cannot approve consistently with my sense of duty to the people and my obligation to the Constitution. By the first section, all persons born in the United States, and not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians, not taxed, are declared citizens. This provision comprehends the Chinese of the Pacific States, Indians subject to taxation, and the race designated as people of color, negroes, mulattoes and persons of African blood. The bill does not propose to give these classes any status of citizenship in the States, except that which may result from their status as citizens of the United States. The power to confer the rights of State citizenship is just as exclusively with the several States as the power to confer Federal citizenship is with the Congress. The right of citizenship thus to be conferred on several excepted races is now for the first time proposed to be given by law. If, as is claimed by many, all persons born in the United States are already citizens the passage of this bill cannot be necessary to make them such. If on the other hand such persons are foreigners, as may be assumed from the proposed legislation to make them such, the grave question presents itself: Whether, when eleven of the thirty-six States are unrepresented in Congress it is sound policy to make the entire colored population and all other excepted classes mentioned, citizens? Four millions of them have just emerged from slavery into freedom. Can it be reasonably supposed they possess the requisite qualifications to entitle them to the privileges and immunities of citizenship? Have the people of the United States expressed such convictions? It may also be asked whether it is necessary they should be declared citizens in order that they may be secured in the enjoyment of the civil rights proposed to be conferred by this bill. Those rights are by Federal and State laws secured to all domiciled aliens and foreigners, even before naturalization, and it may safely be assumed that the same enactments are sufficient to give like protection to those for whom this bill provides. Besides, the policy of the Government always has been that persons who are strangers to and unfamiliar with our institutions, should pass through a certain probation.

This bill, in effect, discriminates against a large number of intelligent and worthy foreigners, and in favor of negroes, to whom after long years of bondage the avenues of light and intelligence have just been suddenly opened, by proposing to make them citizens at once. The first section also contains an enumeration of rights to be enjoyed: to make and enforce contracts, sue and be sued, give evidence in courts, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real estate and personal property, and to have full and equal benefits of all laws the same as white citizens, and to be subject to the same punishments, pains and penalties in connection with white citizens and no others. This perfect equality of white and colored races is attempted to be fixed by federal laws in every State, so that over the vast field of State jurisdiction covered by these enumerated rights, in none of them can any State exercise any power of discrimination between the different races. In the exercise of government over matters exclusively affecting the people of each State, it has frequently been thought expedient to discriminate between the races by the statutes of some States which have laws enacted, for instance that no white person shall marry a negro or mulatto. Chancellor says, speaking of the blacks, "Marriage between blacks and the whites is forbidden in some States where slavery does not exist and prohibited in all the slaveholding States by law, and where not absolutely contrary to law, they are revolting, and regarded as offense against public decency." I don't say this bill repeals State laws on this subject, for as the whites are forbidden to intermarry with the blacks, the blacks can only make such contracts as the whites themselves are allowed to make; therefore they cannot, under this bill, enter into a marriage contract with whites. I cite this discrimination, however, as an instance of State policy, and to inquire, whether, if Congress can abrogate all State laws of discrimination touching contracts generally, Congress may not repeal State laws as to the marriage contract between the races. Heretofore the subject concerned in the enumeration of rights conferred by the bill, has been considered as exclusively belonging to the States, and if Congress can repeal State laws discriminating in these subjects, why may not it repeal all State laws discriminating on suffrage?

The object of the second section is to afford discrimination to colored persons, by imposing penalties upon members of Legislatures who may pass such laws, and upon Judges or officers who may attempt to execute them. This invades the dominion of the States, for which there is no warrant and for which there is no necessity. I do not apprehend such conflicting legislation as the bill seems to contemplate as sure to occur, as to render necessary to adopt a measure of such doubtful constitutionality.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

San Francisco, March 27.—Judge Dwinelle has denied the application of Fred A. Wilder for divorce from his wife, Anna L. Wilder.

N. Willis Coles, a gentleman well known in this city, and formerly book keeper in the office of ex-Sheriff Doane, met with a most horrible death a few minutes past eight o'clock this morning, at the station of the San Jose Railroad, on Fourth street. Mr. Coles was about to take passage on the eight o'clock train for Redwood City, and while standing on the platform talking to Mr. Newhall, President of the road, the train started. In attempting to jump upon the car he accidentally fell between it and the platform, and being caught by the moving train, was crushed in the most horrible manner, his body being carried by the train and twisted several times around until it was pressed into a space not more than six inches in width. Before the train stopped his body had been crushed from the legs up to the breast. The planks of the platform had to be sawed out before the body could be removed.

Judge Dwinelle to-day sentenced Antonio Samovitch to be hanged by the neck until dead, on the 26th day of April next, between the hours of 12 o'clock M. and 3 o'clock P. M., for the murder of Edward Walters, on the 3d day of June last.

P. P. Monihan was discharged from his debts to-day, by a decree of the County Court.

Joseph Adams has filed his application of insolvency in the County Court. He has been engaged in the jewelry business in Stockton.

Arrived, March 26th.—Ship Valparaiso, 155 days from Baltimore; British ship Carlisle, 120 days from Liverpool; bark John A. Paulding, 95 days from Rio Janeiro with coffee; steamer Montana, 3 days from Portland; bark Almatia, 5 days from Columbia river.

Cleared, March 26th.—Bark Legal Tender, Port Angelos; brig T W Lucas, Victoria and Port Angelos.

Money Markets.

The telegraph brings the price of gold from New York up to the 26th inst., at 126, and bankers quote sterling at $1 07 @ $1 07½. Greenbacks sell at 80 @ 80½c. Brokers quote 80 buying and 80½c selling, which is really about the gold prices.

Throat Affections.—A Physician writing from Newfane, New York, speaking of the beneficial effects resulting from the use of "Brown's Bronchial Troches," says: "For alleviating that horrid irritation, only felt by those who have suffered from any Bronchial affection, and for Hoarseness and Sore Throat, too, I am free to confess (though I am an M. D.) they answer all you claim for them." To avoid disappointment, be sure to obtain the genuine "Brown's Bronchial Troches."

HOSTETTER'S

CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS

READ AND REFLECT.

Make sure of Health. "But how?" you ask;
We answer, 'tis an easy task,
Strengthen the Stomach, and next [illegible]
The Nerves, the servants of the brain.
The Liver keep in active play
And regulate, from day to day,
Each organ aid, on Nature's plan,
Brace and refresh the inner man,
And like a watch that's kept in order,
By constant care, with railroad time,
The system's tone and strength renew,
And thereby [illegible] the spirits, too.
"How," you inquire, "can this be done?
This Victory o'er Disease be won?"
"Hostetter's Bitters," we reply,
Is Health's supreme [illegible]

As a means of regenerating the disordered and enfeebled system, regulating every function of the internal organs, reviving the depressed spirits, invigorating the constitution, and prolonging life, no medicinal preparation, either of the past or the present time, has been so completely and universally [illegible] as

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

Against the vapors foul prepare,
That fever-taint the heavy air,
Drink not unmixed the water found
In prairies, woods or marshy ground.
If sedentary toil you ply,
Nature you must assist or die—
For when debarred from exercise
For artificial aid she cries.
Medicine's grand purpose and intent
Is threatened evil to prevent;
And if you'd be relieved or spared
From ills that crush the unprepared,
Hostetter's Bitters are the note
They are the SUREST ANTIDOTE.

To set at defiance the miasma of unhealthy soils, the [illegible] of unwholesome water, the effluvia of [illegible] work-rooms and factories, and the baneful influence of sedentary employments, it is only [illegible] to be forearmed with [illegible]

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED [illegible]

Dyspepsia's pangs, that rack and grind
The body, and depress the mind;
Agues, that as they go and come,
Make life a [illegible] martyrdom;
Colics and dysentries [illegible]
'Neath which the strong man's vigor wanes;
Bilious complaints, those tedious ills,
Ne'er conquered yet by drastic pills;
Bread [illegible]
Cured by [illegible]
Slow constitutional decay
That brings Death [illegible] day by day;
Nervous prostration, mental gloom,
[illegible]
For these [illegible] mineral [illegible]
[illegible]
[illegible]
Not to prevent, alone, but cure.

In dyspepsia, fever and ague, bilious complaints, constitutional and nervous debility, [illegible] and in all complaints of [illegible], proceeding from casual or inherent weakness of the body, the one great remedy and restorative is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

To wanderers on sea or land,
From Polar shore to Tropic strand;
To households lone, in regions new,
And dwellers in great cities, too;
To soldiers in camp, fort and field,
Who need against disease a shield;
To miners, California bound,
And tillers of wet, marshy ground;
To feeble wives of fragile mold;
To young and middle-aged, and old;
To those in health, who would enjoy
Heaven's best gifts without alloy;
To all the strengthless; weak and pale,
Who droop, yet know not what they ail,
Hostetter's Bitters we present
As Health's most potent element.

If there is any value in public opinion, or any weight in medical testimony, the very best and safest Tonic, Corrective and Alterative now before the world is

HOSTETTER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS.

The following members were present—Messrs. Lownsdale, McCraken, Plummer, Rosenheim, Strowbridge, and [illegible].

The records of the previous meeting were read and approved.

[illegible] for license to retail liquors at the corner of First and Ash streets, sent in by Messrs. Frank & Kessler, was [illegible] to the committee on health and police.

Messrs. Pittock, Smith, Vaughn and White petitioned for the McAdamizing of Madison street, between Front and Third streets, which was referred to the committee on streets and public property.

Messrs. John, Lyon & Co. were granted the use of a portion of First street, between Washington and Alder streets, for thirty days in building.

A petition of M[illegible] & Kohn & Fishel, relative to their [illegible] was referred to the committee on ways and means.

The [illegible] on streets and public property reported that Mr. H. A. Stewart had complied with his contract in [illegible] walks and crossings on Madison street, in front of block 53 and opposite the city Plaza, and recommended payment for the same. A warrant for $170 was [illegible]. Also that E. & D. Simmons had completed the portion of their contract in front of blocks 7, 10 and 11, on the same street. Warrants for the sum of $540 were [illegible] in their favor.

The same committee reported adverse to any change of grade, in accordance with the petition of Mr. Burch and others, as it was not [illegible] by the sufficient number of persons [illegible] and it would necessitate a change of the grade of several streets adjoining. The report was [illegible].

[illegible] bills in payment of claims against the city, as [illegible] E. Northrup & Co., bell rope for [illegible] Hook, [illegible] R. G. Aldrich, work at engine house No. 2, $40; W. F. Wilcox, doors for engine house No. 2, $[illegible]; [illegible], extra grading on Front street, [illegible]; H. L. Pittock advertising, $25 60. A. F. Stephens, setting street [illegible], $21; laundry bills for moving [illegible] James Pattison, gravel for plaza, [illegible] Hays, care of Council room, and attendance [illegible] 1865, to date, $72; H. L. [illegible] Lawrence, 83 dogs killed during [illegible], $166; salaries to the several city [illegible].

[illegible] appropriating $1,119 in payment of con[illegible] improvement of Madison street, between [illegible] of Sixth street, from the fund now [illegible] that the city Treasurer retain [illegible] 30 per cent. for future action of [illegible].

[illegible] an Ordinance to amend Ordi[illegible] the licensing of saloons. Pro[illegible] from keeping malt or spirituous liquors [illegible] on the premises in quantities of not [illegible], shall pay a quarterly license of $[illegible].

[illegible] the committee on streets and [illegible] to contract for the improvement of the [illegible] of Seventh street, and south of Salmon [illegible].

[illegible] making an appropriation of $9 17 to the [illegible] the fund for the improvement of Front [illegible].

[illegible] a balance from the appro[illegible] improvement of Front street, to the fund [illegible].

[illegible] to prevent and remove obstacles to side[illegible] second time at the previous meeting—[illegible] provide for civil actions before the Re[illegible] of the City, to recover expenses of [illegible] when ordered by the Street Com[illegible].

[illegible] by the committee on health and [illegible] on ways and means to [illegible] the old Cemetery grounds for the [illegible] not exceeding $4,000, was read [illegible] laid on the table.

[illegible] an explanation that the [illegible] the number of acres includ[illegible] cemetery grounds, the terms of [illegible], &c., and report to the Coun[illegible].

[illegible] said that he thought if it was deemed [illegible] the Council should know [illegible] as to how much Mr. Barrell [illegible] lots and blocks from individuals, and [illegible] asking the purchase [illegible] the ratification of [illegible] to the res[illegible] ascertain the amount Mr. [illegible] and also his receipts.

[illegible] of city taxes, by receipts on ac[illegible] and on motion, [illegible] Mr. McCraken, [illegible] the matter [illegible] was adopted.

[illegible] relative to the planting of shade trees, [illegible] and removal of [illegible] from the [illegible] to be [illegible] in the [illegible].

[illegible]—The Zouave Cadets turned out [illegible] the number of their guns yesterday, [illegible] a visit for the purpose of target shoot[illegible] arriving at the island rain [illegible] to do[illegible] the [illegible] of Mr. [illegible] they [illegible] and [illegible]. The company made a very [illegible] and on their arrival home attracted [illegible] are all young men, [illegible] by pursuing the study of the [illegible] taught them by Capt. Williams, not only [illegible] but [illegible] drilling them [illegible] and deserving credit. The prizes yester[illegible] from our public [illegible] to [illegible].

[illegible]—There were two arrivals of [illegible] yesterday. The [illegible] lately owned and under command of Capt. [illegible] in charge of Capt. F. W. Sealy, who [illegible] with Victo[illegible]. The competition [illegible] and San Francisco rather [illegible] of Portland to furnish bread[illegible] for our [illegible] neighbors, who can purchase flour [illegible] our river at about 50 cents per barrel [illegible] about one half less than we can deliver [illegible]. The trade [illegible] under existing [illegible] to legiti[illegible]. The schooner Pacific, Capt. J. W. Gage, also arrived yesterday [illegible] of 180,000 feet of red[illegible] & Co. The Pacific [illegible] of 148 tons [illegible] on Umpqua river [illegible] Capt. [illegible]. Both [illegible] The Pacific [illegible] same time, was [illegible] Capt. Hancock, when [illegible] the bar on [illegible] was made [illegible] the bar on Mon[illegible].

[illegible] Say spent [illegible] were spent, at least we [illegible] the amount of water spilled in Port[illegible] weather. We'll never prophesy again. [illegible] ten days in advance of [illegible]. We have had much more rain during March, [illegible] month last year, but the [illegible] earlier by nine days. Last year, the [illegible] show, the first [illegible] of the [illegible] occur until April 4th; this year the first [illegible] March 25th, Tuesday [illegible] as we [illegible] by Col. Larrabee yesterday.

[illegible] Market.—The Multnomah Market, [illegible] corner of Oak and First streets, has been [illegible] by changing from the north-west to the [illegible] corner, in a new building built [illegible] for [illegible]. The Multnomah is nearly an exclusive [illegible] Market. It was established in 1858, and we are [illegible] to record the success with which the owner has [illegible] rewarded. The building now occupied by this [illegible] is of frame, and was the first [illegible] erected on [illegible] block this year, but it is now nearly surrounded [illegible] new buildings.

[illegible]—An old [illegible], and young [illegible] on the street yesterday, which is no un[illegible] but from the fact that the brutish old whelp [illegible] a package weighing perhaps ten pounds, [illegible] one of over fifty pounds, which so [illegible] who saw the [illegible] that it attracted [illegible]. By [illegible] of the Marshal the [illegible] were changed [illegible] the heavy one to the back of the [illegible] who [illegible] to have his head broke.

[illegible]—The clipper bark [illegible] Allen is adver[illegible] by the agents, Messrs. McCraken, Merrill & Co., [illegible] for Honolulu, after loading at this port.....The [illegible], Capt. [illegible], arrived at San Francisco [illegible] 18th, five days from the Columbia river.....The [illegible] will leave San Francisco on Saturday [illegible] McCraken, Merrill & Co. are agents.

[illegible] The property owners on Second street are [illegible] the proposition of the Common Council to [illegible] them the McAdamizing [illegible] of improve[illegible] the appearance of Washington street should be [illegible] any one on that point. The owners of [illegible] Second street will remonstrate against the [illegible], and petition for the Nicolson pavement, [illegible] like improvement that may be at least [illegible].

[illegible] at San Francisco.—The telegraph informs [illegible] that the steamship Montana, Capt. Kelly, of the An[illegible] Line, arrived at San Francisco from this port on Tuesday, three days from Columbia river bar. She will probably arrive here early next week, on her return trip.

[illegible] A Hard Case. An old chap familiarly [illegible] as "Cap," who attends at a market on Front [illegible] was arrested yesterday for disorderly conduct, [illegible] was the only matter occurring to keep up the daily [illegible] Police doings.

[illegible]—Carpenters are at work on timbers on [illegible] street framing a building to be erected at No. [illegible], on the ground now occupied by J. O'Con[illegible] as a [illegible], and fruit and vegetable store.

For Young's River.—The bark Jane A. Falkinburg, Capt. A. D. Wass, cleared yesterday for Young's river, where she will receive a cargo of lumber for San Fran[illegible].

Mad. Anna Bishop.—Mad. Anna Bishop is of a very changeable mind, if we may judge by the course pursued by her the past few months. Last fall she promised to pay Portland a visit; next she was heard of in lower California; then we received a notification that her visit would be postponed until her return from the Sandwich Islands—about six weeks from the date of the first voyage of the Ajax. Now we observe that the lady and her husband have sailed for China, leaving Honolulu in the bark Libelle. They purpose visiting the principal places in China, and perhaps Japan, and will then proceed to Australia, and perhaps New Zealand and Valparaiso—a long journey, but we hope it may prove a pleasant one, and by the time she returns to this part of the world, we may have the pleasure of listening to her in a Hall or Theatre more suitable to an occasion of that character.

Suswap.—A recent report from British Columbia gives a very favorable account indeed, of the Suswap quartz. Assays of the rock made in this city show its value to be from $500 to $554 per ton. A number of our citizens are interested in the mines of Suswap, having obtained grants from the British Columbia Government that will insure material development of the interests. A meeting of shareholders was held in the city yesterday, and the Suswap Gold and Silver Mining Company was fully organized.

Owyhee Interests.—A private letter from a reliable citizen of Portland, dated at New York recently, states that sales of stock are dull at present. There is some inquiry in England, and the interests of the Portland Tunnel Company are mentioned as among those most promising for the chance of obtaining assistance through English capital.

School Meeting.—The Electors in School District No. 1, will meet at the Central School House on Monday evening next for the purpose of electing Directors and Clerk for the ensuing year.

Masonic.—Special Meeting of Harmony Lodge No. 12, this (Thursday) evening at 7½ o'clock.

Dr. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters.—The operation of this palatable remedy upon the stomach, liver and excretory organs is singularly soothing and conservative. It regulates, recruits and purifies them. Dyspepsia in all its forms yields to its control and invigorating properties, and it is recommended to mothers, enfeebled by the cares and duties of maternity, as the safest and best tonic they can probably use. In all the crisis of female life it will be found eminently useful, and elderly persons will derive much more benefit from it than from ordinary stimulants. Sold by all Druggists and dealers everywhere, and HODGE & CALEF, mch20 97, Front St.

Many a heart has been made glad by the use of ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM. Many cases of Consumption have been restored to health by this remedy, after all other remedies had failed. For sale by SMITH & DAVIS, Agents, Portland, Oregon.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, [illegible] constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try the celebrated

PLANTATION BITTERS,

Which are now recommended by the highest medical authorities, and warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure, and must supercede all other tonics where a healthy, gentle stimulant is required.

They purify, strengthen and invigorate.
They create a healthy appetite.
They are an antidote to change of water and diet.
They overcome effects of dissipation and late hours.
They strengthen the system and enliven the mind.
They prevent miasmatic and intermittent fevers.
They purify the breath and acidity of the stomach.
They cure Dyspepsia and Constipation.
They cure Diarrhea and Cholera Morbus.
They cure Liver Complaint and Nervous Headache.

They make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya bark, wintergreen, sassafras, roots and herbs, all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix rum. For particulars, see circulars and testimonials around each bottle.

Beware of impostors. Examine every bottle. See that it has our private U. S. Stamp unmutilated over the cork, with plantation scene, and our signature on a fine steel plate side label. See that our bottle is not refilled with spurious and deleterious stuff. Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters by the gallon or in bulk, is an impostor. Any person imitating this bottle, or selling any other material therein, whether called Plantation Bitters or not, is a criminal under the U. S. Law, and will be so prosecuted by us. We already have our eye on several parties re-filling our bottles, &c., who will succeed in getting themselves into close quarters. The demand for Drake's Plantation Bitters from ladies, clergymen, merchants, &c., is incredible. The simple trial of a bottle is the evidence we present of their worth and superiority. They are sold by all respectable druggists, grocers, physicians, hotels, saloons, steamboats and country stores.

The Rebellion in Spain

THE LEADER, GENERAL PRIM.

[From the London Daily News, Jan. 9]

General Prim is stated to be at the head of the military revolt. He is a man of chivalrous daring, and popular with a portion of his army, but there are officers in the Spanish army whose [illegible] would have afforded a better guarantee of soundness of judgment and maturity of counsels than his. A Catalonian by birth, he has, during a public career of thirty-three years, experienced the vicissitudes of fortune—now promoted for services to the Crown, then elected by Barcelona as a patriot, and soon after denounced by the people as a traitor. Twice he has been recalled from exile by election to the Cortes, and three years ago he was commanding a Spanish army on foreign service. His title, Count de Reus, commemorates a successful pronunciamento, of which he was the author, and which was made at his birth place, the town of that name It is impossible to judge whether the means of success are at this time within his reach.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE REVOLT.

[From the London Star, Jan 8]

What would happen supposing Prim were successful? Politically one might say nothing There would be a new Prime Minister, but what Spain wants is a new system; indeed, a new dynasty. She wants to find a ruler and a ruling family of which she could be proud, and she does not know where to seek for them. It is not too much to say that Queen Isabella reigns for fault of better. She is neither loved nor respected personally; she comes of a bad stock; she has made bad connections; she has always given herself up to bad influences. This Spain sees, but Spain does not see any one to put in her place. The talk always more or less widely afloat about the unification of the whole Peninsular under the Braganzas of the Portuguese throne, owes its importance solely to the consideration that there, near at hand, the Spaniards see a really respectable ruling family, and that, for lack of any better plan as Spain cannot supply rulers for Portugal, it may some time [illegible] seem rational enough to let Portugal supply rulers for Spain. But Spain's one [illegible] want being a sovereign, we do not see how any [illegible] tion under General Prim could supply that deficiency. Any movement of the kind, therefore, could not have even for Spain little more than a personal importance. Materially and morally Spain is in most ways looking up. She wants [illegible] than anything else just now to be able to lift her rulers to her own level. A military rising which gave Queen Isabella one daring soldier instead of another, could hardly accomplish much to satisfy the healthy aspirations of the Spanish people.

Colorado.

To the west of Kansas, stretching through four degrees of longitude, from the 37th to the 41st [illegible] and through seven degrees of latitude, or in other words being some 480 miles in length and 380 miles in breadth, lies the young State of Colorado. It extends westerly almost to Green River, the chief branch of the Colorado, from which it takes its name. Denver is its important city—a place of 4000 regular, and half as many changing inhabitants. The whole State numbers [illegible] 40,000 population. The chief mining or [illegible] towns, are Black Hawk and Central, [illegible] as many as Denver's. Golden City is the nominal capital, fourteen miles to the west of the latter city, and located at the base of the mountains; and it is through this place that the Pacific Railway is expected to pass on its way to the rich mining country farther beyond. The Spanish population, formerly belonging to the Northern counties of New Mexico, but now to the South [illegible] counties of Colorado, are counted at 8000.

The State [illegible] the region around which the caravans used to halt, on their way to the Pacific slope, as it is the one which stretches between the Missouri Valley plains and the eternal snows of the Sierra Nevada. Prospecting for the precious metals [illegible] there in 1858, in which year the region yielded $4,000; last year, (1865) it yielded $14,000,000. It is estimated that the yield for 1866 will reach nearly $25,000,000, and for 1867 fully $40,000,000. After that the calculations take the [illegible] of fables. The country was originally [illegible] from St. Louis, Kansas City and Leavenworth. The agricultural interests of the new State are of the [illegible] importance, particularly in [illegible] of the mining interests; the latter drawing large bodies of men to the gold and silver [illegible] to pay [illegible] for everything [illegible]

[illegible] six hundred miles, by mule [illegible] wagons, and the rates are nearly what the owners choose to charge. But the way is [illegible] a railroad between the Missouri and Denver [illegible] the grading having been [illegible] by nature, and but few bridges requiring to be built. The West has paid a million dollars per year for stage [illegible] Atchison and Denver, and as much [illegible] for the carrying of the mail has been paid by the United States. It is [illegible] that the [illegible] of travel and freight will warrant the construction of the long [illegible] Pacific Railroad, whose [illegible] thirty miles in [illegible] are now [illegible] too fast for the [illegible] of the population.

[illegible] are two places at Denver, and two more in the [illegible] region. The station in which [illegible] twenty-five saw mills and ten [illegible] have been [illegible] the past two years. The [illegible] mills in the State are counted [illegible] hundred and fifty, costing $20,000,000. [illegible] if all were running on [illegible] less than [illegible] $36,000 per year. [illegible] dollars per day. Mr. Love[illegible] Golden City, is soon to erect a [illegible] mill at that point; having [illegible] and belongings in Boston. The mill is to turn out rails for the road that is [illegible] between Denver and the [illegible] passing through Golden City, and probably furnish one of the many links in the [illegible] to the Pacific.—Boston [illegible]

[illegible] AND AMERICA.—The following [illegible] in Switzerland, by a [illegible] of the most prominent men [illegible]:

W[illegible], The address of the Swiss people having met with a warm and cordial reception by the [illegible] of the Government of the United States, [illegible] Swiss [illegible] of fine arts have [illegible] the plan of conforming and [illegible] the mutual sympathy and [illegible] existing [illegible] the two republican [illegible] by a lasting and visible monument.

The American war has given us such a glorious example of republican strength and virtue, and so [illegible] vindicated the vitality and endurance of republican institutions, that we, the Swiss, as the only [illegible] of the Old World—who are looking, full of pride and hope, over to our Trans-Atlantic sister republic [illegible] but a [illegible] and honorable duty, by erecting in our [illegible] monument, [illegible] the [illegible] of the American war,

We have [illegible] resolved upon having taken the [illegible] of the [illegible] Abraham Lincoln; the [illegible] Andrew Johnson; the Secretary of State Mr. Seward; and Generals Grant and Sherman, [illegible] in one tableau, or single in some memorable events, and present these pictures to the Federal Diet [that [illegible] the Swiss nation] as national property. They feel convinced that these [illegible] will form one of the fittest ornaments of one of the national buildings of the Swiss Confederation.

This plan has become so much more feasible [illegible] the celebrated Swiss painter, Francis Buscher, from Solothurn, has offered to cross over to the Union and to finish the ordered pictures on the soil of America.

STRONG MANIFESTATIONS.—The latest instance "of spiritual manifestations" that we have seen is that recorded of an incredulous young man "down east," whose father had promised before his death, to hold invisible communications with him:

"The spirit of the gentleman (who, by the way, had been somewhat severe in matters of discipline) was called up, and held some conversation with the boy. But the messages were not at all convincing, and the youth would not believe that his father had anything to do with them.

"Well," said the medium, "what can your father do to remove your doubts?"

"If he will perform some act which is characteristic of him, and without any directions as to what it shall be, I shall believe in it."

"Very well," said the medium; "we wait some manifestations from the spirit land."

"This was no sooner said than (as the story goes) a table walked up to the youth, and, without ceremony, kicked him out of the room!

"Hold on! stop him!" cried the terrified young convert; "that's the old man! I believe in rappings!"

The hero has never since had a desire to stir up the old gentleman.

AN UNHAPPY SQUABBLE.—A bad state of affairs appears to exist in Portland among Union men. There are conflicting interests among you, gentlemen, and you are endangering the Union cause in Oregon by your action The united voice of the party throughout the State demand harmony, and the loyal people will not hold any man or men guiltless, who, to gratify personal preferences or attain personal ends, jeopardizes the common cause. Union men of Portland, settle your local difficulties, and come up presenting a solid front to the enemy. The Union party demands it at your hands, and you will do less than your duty if you fail to heed their voice. Albany Journal.

The Christian Commission—Its Closing Up

WASHINGTON, February 11th —The fourth and last anniversary of the Christian Commission was held to night in the Hall of the House of Representatives All the seats both on the floor and in the galleries were filled to overflowing at an early hour, and many persons were unable to obtain admittance Schuyler Colfax, Speaker of the House, took the chair and made an eloquent address, in the course of which he said

"The fearful trial to which our republic was subjected for the preservation of its existence is over The loved and lost who died that the nation might live sleep in their bloody shrouds in the village churchyards in cannon furrowed battle fields near prison camps, and too, in unmarked graves, but all enshrined in millions of hearts with the sainted dead of the Revolution, forever more The sword is exchanged for the plow share, and the great rebellion organized on broken oaths, and culminating in the assassination of the nation's chief with the great uprising which so patriotically confronted it, and the great victory which crushed it have passed into history It is under these auspicious circumstances that this organization inspired from the throne whence flows every good impulse which like a handmaid of mercy went forth with our armies, to succor and to save, returns to night to the representative hall, to render a final account of its stewardship of its thousands of active and willing co laborers and its millions of expenditures These laborers rejoice with all who rejoice over a country saved, for its brilliant destiny hereafter, in that noble sentiment, deeper and profounder in its significance to day than when first uttered in this capitol, 'Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable'"

Rev Dr. Boynton, Chaplain of Congress, delivered the opening prayer. A psalm was read by Rev. W. J. R. Taylor Stewart, President of the Christian Commission, then gave an interesting statement of the work, showing that two millions and a half of money had been received and disbursed. Two millions and eight hundred dollars worth of hospital stores were distributed; also more than a million dollars worth of publications, sixty five thousand dollars in stationery, one million four hundred and sixty thousand Bibles and Testaments, more than a million hymn books, more than eight million knapsack books, two hundred and ninety-six thousand library books, and eighteen million copies of religious newspapers The total cost of all receipts is stated at six millions two hundred and sixty-four thousand dollars.

Charles Demond, of Boston, who wrote the resolutions adopted at the organization of the Commission, gave an interesting sketch of its history, with many thrilling incidents. He exhibited a five cent bill which a widow of eighty, who earned her living by her needle, walked miles to give to her pastor for the soldiers, a silver dollar, the dying gift of a mother, and the wedding ring of a widow, who had given her only son to die for his country.

Colfax then stated that at the last anniversary of the Commission on the last Sabbath, January, 1865, that striking ode "Your Mission," was sung, Abraham Lincoln, with his tall form, his care worn face, and his nobly throbbing heart was here, and listened to it, the tears coursing down his cheeks. Subsequently he sent up the programme, which Colfax exhibited, on which appears the following request in his familiar handwriting—written by that hand now lying cold in the grave—"Near the close let us have 'Your Mission' repeated by Mr. Phillips—don't say I called for it.—LINCOLN."

Phillips, of Cincinnati, then sung, amidst profound silence, the beautiful ode referred to Eloquent addresses followed by Rear Admiral Davis, Rev. Herrick Johnson, of Pittsburg, Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin, General Augur and Rev. B. W. Chidlaw—Phillips singing between the speeches "We are Rising as a People" and "America."

Bishop Simpson delivered the parting speech, summing up the work of the Commission, its efficient and vital aid to the Government, with a glowing eulogy on woman, closing encomium on General Grant and George H. Stewart, whom he declared to be the Lieutenant General of the Christian Commission.

After Phillips had sung "Home of the Soul," and Rev. Prof. Moss, of Pennsylvania had delivered the closing prayer, the Hutchinsons sung several odes.

Rev. Dr. Dyer, of New York, pronounced the benediction, and the vast assemblage dispersed.

Chief Justice Chase, Secretary Welles, Lieutenant General Grant, Admiral Farragut, and many other distinguished persons were present.

OREGON POLITICS.—The political cauldron in Oregon is seething and boiling at a terrible rate. The election of a Governor, a Representative in Congress, a United States Senator, besides other State and county officers, is pending. Many of these positions are honorable, and some of them lucrative. It is not strange that different men put forth their claims, and urge them with pertinacity and vehemence. Every one in that respect has an equal right, but the people are at last to decide on the claims of each. With this we have nothing to do further than to contribute what little influence we can for the success of the Union. However, there are a few words which, it seems to us, might appropriately be uttered in the ear of the leaders of the different elements of that party.

With the party united, there is a fair certainty of success at the polls. With the party divided, there is an absolute certainty of defeat. * * *

The man who would sacrifice the supremacy of that party which has fought the battles of the Nation, and [illegible] her power into the hands of the men, or the partisans of the men, who have battled against the Nation, to gratify any personal ambition, or personal enmity, ought to be, and will be [illegible] with the deepest infamy. We are persuaded that no such man will be found in the Union party of Oregon.

It would be unseemly in us to enter any contests as between individuals in that State, yet we cannot forbear to express our desire that if Oregon has a citizen of pre-eminent ability, with a record of unsuspicioned loyalty, the Union party, in the coming canvas for that position, will invest that citizen with the dignity of the Senatorship. By the intellect and patriotism of her last elected Senator the State is winning a high place in the councils of the Nation. Let her Legislature put his peer by his side, and that young State will make her voice heard from ocean to ocean. Another remark we may venture. Her interests are now in safe hands in the lower House of Congress, and it is a question of interest whether any new and untried man could better serve her there To the Union men of Oregon then we say, work for principle, for patriotism, and yours shall be the triumph.—Vancouver Register.

HOW TO KEEP A HOTEL.—Procure a well dressed clerk, with curly black hair, if possible, to stand at the desk, and by all means insist on his wearing diamonds

Seedy visitors will take no liberties with such a man.

When a traveler comes in he is not to notice him for the space of five minutes at least, it puts the obligation at once where it belongs.

You take him in, not he you.

It is an excellent device to have the numbers of your chambers reversed from the old plan, i. e., let them begin to count from the roof.

Thus when the guest sees the clerk put "No 10," for instance, opposite his name on the register, he departs satisfied, and is too much exhausted and cowed by the time he discovers its whereabouts to make any complaint

Instruct your clerk that it is not his business to know anything about departing trains and steam boats

Some persons are so easily imposed upon that the extraordinary tact of a highly bedizened clerk's knowing their names two minutes after reading them on the register tickles them tremendously.

In regard to the dining room, you cannot have too impudent an Irishman as head waiter

It should be his duty when a guest enters the room, no matter how empty it may be, to take him in convoy and make him walk the entire length of it before assigning him a seat

It not only serves to impress the grandeur of the apartment upon him, but invariably disconcerts bashful men, so that they devour their meals meekly and make no troublesome requests

Ladies should be served in the same way for exactly contrary reasons

It affords them a fine opportunity to display their clothing, and puts them in good humor

You should always charge for a fire in winter in every room that has conveniences for it, and if remonstrated with reply that it is a 'rule of the house," and the guest might have had it

This phrase you will find of immense service on all sorts of occasions

Let all of your employees be particular to style the hotel omnibus a 'coach," and a gent's wife, his "lady"

These little elegancies cost nothing and gild the surface of life immensely.

Procure the largest Chinese gong you can find to awaken your guests in the morning and call them to meals

They will conclude that your house is a stunning affair

A negro will probably beat it more thoroughly than a white man

Also, on the counter in the office, keep an immense hammer bell

A judicious clerk will produce a very humbling effect upon a modest guest by striking it rapidly four or five times when he is asking absurd questions

Follow these suggestions carefully, and you will go far to prove the truth of Emerson's aphorism that "travel is the fool's paradise."

PROGRAMME OF THE "RECONSTRUCTED"—The future programme of reconstructed rebels is epitomized in the following scrap of a dialogue related by a Mobile correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette Which side shall we take?' answered an adept in political shuffling whose presence graced many a caucus in Washington in the old times, 'why, the side that bids highest for us of course and you needn't be at any loss to know what side that is You've been whipping us right soundly We acknowledged the whipping, but we don't kiss the hand that gave it—not by a d—d sight! We'll unite with the opposition up North and between us we'll make a majority Then we'll show you who's going to rule this country"

ALLITERATIVE —Brother Ridge of the Grass Valley National, declares President Johnson's late speech is unsurpassed for excellence in ancient or modern history' We are not prepared to go farther than Brother Ridge Unsurpassed' is a sort of negative form of expression destitute of any positive significance We don't believe that either Demosthenes, or Cicero or Chatham, or Burke, or Webster or Clay ever did make or ever could have made such a speech —S F Democratic Chronicle

U. S. Marshal's Notice.

WHEREAS an information has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon, on the 15th day of February A. D. 1866, by J N Dolph Esq District Attorney, against four boxes of cigars, one lot of leaf tobacco and one lot of loose cigars, alleging in substance, that on or about the 10th day of February, 1866, the said cigars and tobacco were found in the possession of one Frederick Fetts, who was manufacturing cigars without a permit, as required by the laws of the United States, and praying process against said cigars and tobacco and that the same may be decreed forfeited to the United States

Now therefore in pursuance of the warrant under the seal of said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said cigars and tobacco, or in any way interested therein, that they be and appear before the said District Court, to be held at the City of Portland on Monday, the 2d day of April 1866, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, then and there to interpose their claims and make their allegations in that behalf

U. S. Marshal's Notice.

WHEREAS, an information has been filed in the District Court of the United States for the District of Oregon on the 17th day of February, 1866, by J N Dolph Esq District Attorney, against forty-five boxes of cigars alleging in substance that on or about the month of January, 1866 the said forty five boxes of cigars passed out of the hands of the manufacturer (and not into a bonded warehouse) without having stamps denoting the tax thereon so affixed upon the said boxes by an inspector; that the same could not be opened without affixing or destroying said stamps as by law provided and praying process against said cigars and that the same may be decreed forfeited to the United States

Now therefore in pursuance of the warrant under the seal of said Court to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said forty-five boxes of cigars or any way interested therein, to be and appear before the said District Court, to be held at the City of Portland on Monday, the 2d day of April, 1866 at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day, then and there to interpose their claims, and make their allegations in that behalf
